PDP-11/45 Prototype retires

The original hand-crafted PDP-11/45 prototype was retired to the Digital Computer Museum in Marlboro after eight years of varied service in Digital.

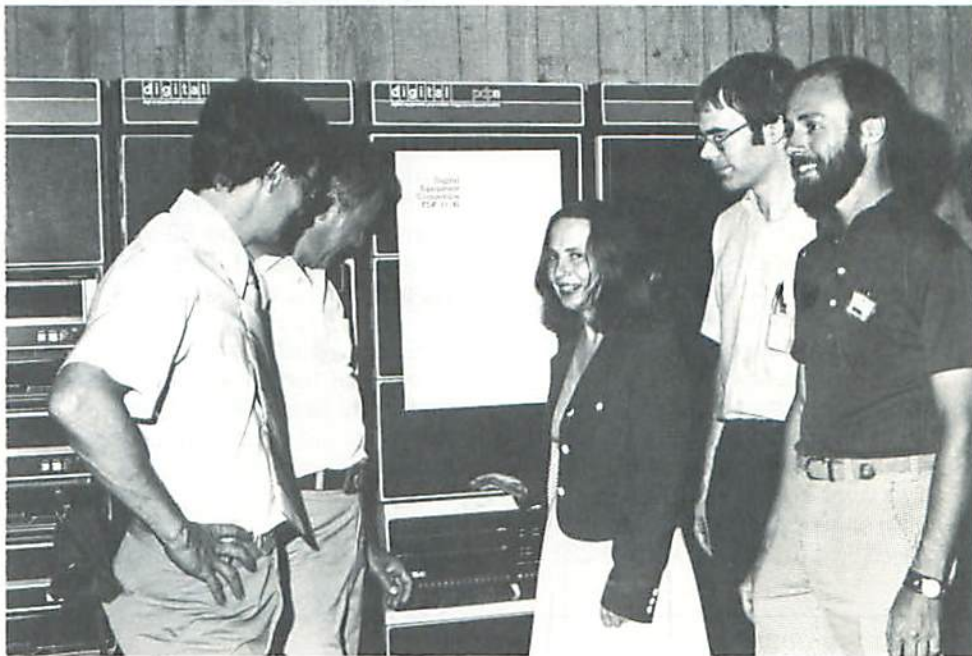

At ceremonies on Sept. 15, Gwen Bell, director of the museum, accepted the prototype from representatives of Systems Evaluation Engineering (SEE), who were using the system.

The Engineering prototype, weakened by etch changes and circuit revisions, was slated for salvage along with tailored TU10, TU56, and RK03 vintage peripherals. But the equipment was saved and integrated as a system to be used by SEE to study Unibus operations.

Several Unibus trouble shooting tools designed during this phase are in use today by SEE and Field Service. Methods for stabilizing Unibus operations were also determined and implemented. The system became the most reliable and dependable in the Mill complex.

Later, under the name of System #37, it was used as a RSTS/E Time Share System and a test bed for some of Digital's newer products announced earlier this year. The system's final job was as a connection of the Engineering Network. It has been replaced by the more efficient and the greater memory capacity PDP-11/70 system.

The Digital Computer Museum is located in the lobby of MR2. Employees may tour the museum and see the PDP-11/45 prototype during regular museum hours, 8:15-5, Monday through Friday.

(Left to right) Jim Carroll, evaluation manager; Walter Kiefer, long-range planning and support manager; Gwen Bell, museum director; Roger Coulson, test engineer; and Wayne Newberry, tools development manager, attend the official retirement of the PDP-11/45 engineering prototype to the Computer Museum. Jim, Walt, Roger and Wayne are with Systems Evaluation Engineering, the group last using the vintage system.

"A Guide to Digital and its Products"

What do you need to know to do your job? Could you use information on the company's organizational structure; Digital's hardware and software products presently on the market or a non-technical description on just how a computer works?

Sales Secretary Programs, part of Sales Training, is offering to employees a guide to this information.

Called A Guide to Digital and its Products, it is a revision of the Field Clerical Guide to Digital Products. A glossary of computer terms is included along with a section explaining how to read a price list.

The guide may be ordered through your sales office literature contact person or by calling DTN 8-245-5315. If more than one copy is purchased by your cost center, the cost is $70 per guide. Otherwise, the manual is $100 apiece. In both cases the cost will be cross charged to your cost center. Please remember to include your location/mailstop, DTN and cost center with your order.

United Way Fun Run starts at noon Sept. 23 at PK3 visitor's entrance

In memoriam....

On August 5, Louis A. LaRocca, Jr. died of a heart attack. He was 43.

Lou had worked for Digital for 14 years. Most recently, he was financial manager for the Computing Terminals group in Central Engineering. Prior to that position, he was with the Computer Special Systems group.

Lou leaves his wife, Lynne (Lockhart), who is a Personnel/Systems specialist for General Manufacturing in the Mill.

AA meets weekly for employees

A CLOSED discussion meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous for Digital employees is held each Wednesday in Marlboro from 11:30-12:30. Unlike an open AA meeting, this group is NOT for the general public, only for "self admitted" alcoholics.

Anyone interested in AA or attending an open meeting should call the Boston office at 617-426-9444.

Anyone interest in the CLOSED meeting should call Diana Macy at the Marlboro Health Service, DTN 8-231-5672.

Would the persons who witnessed or assisted the man who fell through the lodge deck at Crotched Mountain on July 18 or the subsequent accident to a young girl on the same morning, please contact Dan Thrasher at DTN 8-223-9364.

DCU offers All Savers Certificates

The much publicized All Savers Certificates will be offered by Digital Credit Union (DCU) beginning October 1, according to general manager Richard D. Mangone.

The new certificates offer DCU members definite tax advantages. Savers may claim a tax exclusion of up to $1,000 if filing singly (and $2,000 if a joint return) on dividends earned on certificates purchased between October 1, 1981 and January 1, 1983.

The certificates have a one year maturity and a $500 minimum deposit is necessary.

The certificates yield will be equal to the 70% of the average investment yield for the most recent auction of the 52 week U.S. Treasury Bills. That means you would earn 9.614% on the current 13.735% Treasury Bill.

Early withdrawal means that the saver will forfeit any tax exemptions. By law, the certificates cannot be used as collateral for loans.

Merit Exams set for October

Children of all full-time employees are eligible to compete in the Digital National Merit Scholarship Program. Since the program's initiation six years ago, Digital has sponsored 35 students.

To qualify, high school students must take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) in the fall of their junior year.

National Merit has set two dates, Oct. 13 and 17, when schools may schedule the exam. Students should check with their guidance counselor to find out which date their school will use.

For further information about the Digital National Merit Scholarship Program, contact Donna Spencer, program coordinator, at DTN 8-223-5320.

EMPLOYEE KUDOS

The purpose of this column is to recognize employees who have achieved community or professional honors or recognition. Contributions should include the employee's name; position and group; the award/office/honor; the group giving the honor and the date presented.

Community honors

Emily Sherrill, programmer/analyst for Investor Services, has been selected for the 1980-81 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America." She was chosen for her many musical contributions to local community orchestras including the Wellesley Orchestra and the Sudbury Savoyards. These groups are non-profit organizations that provide musical entertainment for their communities. Emily has donated her talents as a French horn player several years.

Professional honors

Don Crowley and Dan Wiederkehr, Corporate Risk Management, have been awarded the designation of Certified Safety Professionals, (CSP), the highest professional appointment in the safety field. There are about 6,500 CSPs in the world; there are now three at Digital. Al Sidel, Corporate Safety and Loss Prevention manager, is Don and Dan's manager and the third CSP.

Don Falkowski, engineering supervisor in Corporate Product Safety, has been recognized as a Certified Quality Engineer by the American Society for Quality Control (ASQC).

Suzie Tebay, Quality planning engineer in Westminster, has been elected Division Chair of the Standards Committee of the American Society for Quality Control at the National Technical Congress.

You can't make a move without them

"Our job is customer service. We strive to provide efficient and expeditious handling of all our employee's moves."

Household Goods Relocation is the group within Digital responsible for the shipping of household goods for relocating employees - new hires and transfers. Under Finance & Administration and part of Corporate Distribution in Northboro, Household Goods Relocation arranged 1,830 domestic moves and 97 international moves in the last fiscal year.

Domestic moves are arranged by Relocation through local agents representing 11 nationwide van lines. The selection of a carrier is based on cost and their past service record, documented by employee's evaluations of their performance after a move. These factors determine the percentage of business Digital will allocate to each van line. This Relocation group also meets with each carrier on a quarterly basis to discuss their performance.

International moves are booked by the same criteria with five international forwarders strategically located around the world.

The group is managed by Jim Kovac and supervised by Joan

The Household Goods Relocation department in Northboro arranged 1,830 domestic and 97 international moves last year. The department staff includes (left to right front) Mary Boudreau, Joan Labelle, Inez Clemmer, (back) Diane Anastas, Jim Kovac and Andrea Donoghue.

Labelle. Customer service representatives are Diane Anastas, Mary Boudreau, Inez Clemmer and Andrea Donoghue.

Household Goods Relocation contributes to corporate policy changes in relocation as members of the Relocation Task Force. They also offer presentations on relocation issues to personnel service administrators and U.S. area field personnel administrators.

Digital schedules engineering computing seminars

Digital is sponsoring a series of two-day seminars on computing applications in engineering in major cities across the United States, including Boston.

The seminars are organized by Digital's Engineering Systems and Educational Services Groups and Schaeffer Analysis, Inc. Designed for managers in structural and mechanical engineering, the course provides direction in defining opportunities for improving productivity, in evaluating various approaches to engineering computation and in implementing solutions. Attendees will spend two full days in a participative classroom environment.

Topics to be considered are hardware and software building blocks of computer-aided design (CAD); support issues (training, consulting, system development and maintenance); comparative features and economics of service bureaus, centralized and distributed systems, turnkey and programmable systems; managing implementation and evolution of systems; and planning the introduction of CAD.

The next session will be held in Boston on Oct. 6 and 7. For more information, contact the Educational Programs manager, Engineering Systems Group, MR1-1/M75.

Why wait in line?

Petty Cash has established a drop-off service for vouchers at Parker Street.

Vouchers left at the service, the slot under the third window, will be processed, and checks issued, in 48 hours. Checks may be picked up at normal window hours, 8:30-3:00. Advances and vouchers will be paid only by check.

Before submitting vouchers, be sure they are filled out completely and delivered in an interoffice envelope with your name and extension on the front.

Travel tips for employees

U.S. employees who travel on company business should be aware of certain procedures that will take the confusion and trouble out of seeking emergency medical care for illness or injury.

Whether traveling in the United States or overseas, be sure to carry your John Hancock or HMO (Health Maintenance Organization) identification card with you at all times. If you are covered by an HMO, be familiar with the requirements of your HMO for receiving medical care outside of the service area.

If you are covered by Digital's plan with John Hancock, just present your card to the hospital or physician. The provider may call the collect number listed on the card to verify coverage. Hancock will also wire a verification if you personally request it.

John Hancock, the HMO or Digital can not dictate to the provider of the services how and when the bill is to be paid.

If you pay for the medical services rendered, be certain that you obtain a copy of the bill detailing the type of service received, the amount charge and the date. Submit the bill for reimbursement following the designated procedure for either Hancock or the HMO.

For a handy card with these and more "Travelers Medical Tips" request form EJ21125 from P&CS, NR2-2/W3. Please include your name, badge number, mailstop and cost center with your request. The card was prepared by Health Services, Employee Relations and Corporate Benefits, and published by Corporate Travel.
